Meet other parents of African American students to discuss ways to ensure the success of our children, and plan events that celebrate, benefit, and support our children's education.

The African American Parents Association of Northwest High School seeks to celebrate the achievements of African American students and to bridge any gaps between them and their Asian, Caucasian, and Latin American counterparts. This association advocates for students here at Northwest and at the Montgomery County School Board. It has sponsored college trips, career days, participated in the NAACP Youth Summit, and awarded scholarships. In addition, we have encouraged African American parent involvement in the PTSA and supported a youth council here at Northwest. You are invited to take an active role in this journey towards educational excellence for all of our children.
